

Buyback

Cuprum Token is a financial instrument that possesses the function of a buyback!

Unlike most tokens, Cuprum is an electronic forward contract for the purchase or sale of copper and will not be listed on crypto-exchanges due to volatility.

In our case, the investor does not assume the risk that the price of the token will collapse, as it does with other tokens quite frequently. Cuprum Token can not drop below the market value of copper, which guarantees the investor safety and augmentation of its funds.

Reverse buy-back will be carried out on our own trading platform for trading digital forward contracts for copper and other commodities in the future.

The launch of the website will take place on November 1, access to it will only be granted to those partaking in the Token Sale of Cuprum Token Reverse buyback is a guarantee of the return of your money at the cost of copper on the London Metal Exchange We remind you that the value of token and the production cost of copper at our enterprise due to unique recovery methods is now $ 2, and in a year we will buy out all the tokens at a market value of at least $ 6.5, which showcases more than 300% in profits.

Reverse buy-back will take place in the application of the Marketplace of Metals (Cuprum Exchange) at the rate of LME -5% (transaction commission)

From 16.11.2019 the buyback will be made in the amount equivalent to 35 000 tokens a month in case of the soft cap and 290 000 tokens in case of hard cap Further more, the auctions will be held in a free mode and everyone will be able to participate in the purchase of digital derivatives.
